Apollo 9 blasts off On 10-day mission

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Riding the thundering power of a Saturn 5 super-rocket, the Apollo 9 astronauts today hurtled toward a marathon earth orbit trip that could clear the way for Americans to land on the moon in June or July.

The mightiest rocket ever built blasted away from Cape Kennedy at 11 a.m. (EST) to start Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart on a planned 10-day globe-circling mission that was delayed three days when all three astronauts developed sore throats and stuffy noses.

Their main goal on this most ambitious man-on-space flight yet is to prove the flight worthiness of the lunar module (LEM), the bug-like craft which is being developed to land two men on the moon. Veteran space fliers McDivitt and Scott and rookie Schweickart sat side by side in the Apollo 9 command module as the powerful Saturn 5 exploded to life, spraying the launch pad with a dazzling sheet of flame.

Flight director Eugene Krantz reported, "Apollo 9, you're go all the way. You look good."

The LEM rode in a compartment between the spaceship and the rocket. After three hours in orbit, the two vehicles are to link up nose-to-nose.

The 36-story-tall rocket howled on its pedestal for 8.9 seconds as a computer system verified that the mammoth cluster of five first stage engines had ignited properly and generated full total thrust of 7.7 million pounds—equal to the power of more than 500 jet fighter planes.

When the computers sensed all was right, they commanded four 40,000-pound steel restraining arms to flip back to release the 3,243-ton monster. It rose with agonizing slowness, gradually veered over on a southeast heading and sped out over the Atlantic, spewing a tail of fire more than 500 feet long.

Tens of thousands of persons watched the spectacular liftoff from beaches and other vantage points at Cape Kennedy. However clouds spoiled the view as the rocket quickly disappeared into the low hanging layer.

Among the observers was Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who watched from the launch control center. From Washington, President Nixon phoned Mrs. McDivitt. They spoke briefly.

The wives and children of the three astronauts watched the launching on television from their homes in Houston.

After two minutes the first stage shut down, and the second stage ignited at an altitude of 42 miles.

The second stage burned for six minutes and eleven seconds and successfully sent the final stage on its way. The third stage ignited perfectly at an altitude of 101 miles.

The third stage provided the final 112 seconds of power to send Apollo 9 into orbit at 17,400 miles an hour.

McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart were up at 5:45 a.m. for a medical examination and the traditional flight day breakfast of steak, scrambled eggs, toast, coffee and orange juice.

The spacecraft hatch was sealed at 9:11 a.m. and the cockpit was pressurized.

Drug use, abuse In schools found

By DOROTHY LASKEY
Of The Press Staff

Prevalent drug abuse by students from the junior high level through high school in the Ypsilanti, Van Buren and Willow Run school districts was revealed yesterday afternoon when approximately 75 persons met to discuss an incident which occurred at East Junior High School last week.

***
That incident, involving sleeping pills which were reportedly being sold at the school, sent a 13-year-old eighth grader to Beyer Memorial Hospital in critical condition.

A previous account indicated the pills had been taken, but the incident was supposedly an isolated one.

The youngster's mother said the boy was studied intensely for possible brain damage. He has been released by the hospital.

The boy was also suffering from bruises, which the mother and a school official said were the results of a hitting and kicking incident in gym class while the boy was under the influence of the drug.

Roberts regarding the incident indicated that from three to six Negro boys were involved.

The mother of the boy said that such incidents were not "freak occurrences" at the school.

She said that her sons (she also has another son attending East Junior High) had told her that "stuff" was being peddled in the school and that "pills" were being dropped into soft drinks at parties unbeknown to the intended consumer.

Other mothers indicated their children also brought home such reports and that at least two beating incidents at the school had taken place without apparent school action.

The mother of the hospitalized boy said that a month ago she had told East Principal Alvin L. Joslyn, assistant principal Vaughn Filsinger and a member of the police force that drugs were being passed in the school.

She said that to her knowledge nothing had been done about it.

At the meeting Filsinger said the persons who should know (indicating the staff) were often the last to know.

Filsinger, Police Chief Ray H. Walton and State Rep. Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti) were at the meeting to respond to questions and address the group.

Responding to the question if the police knew that there were drugs — "pills" and

HELP committee Set up to inform Of drug dangers

By DOROTHY LASKEY

A "HELP" committee to educate and inform adults and students about the dangers of drug abuse began forming yesterday afternoon when the extent of marijuana use by 12 and 13-year-olds in the community was revealed.

The committee composed of concerned educators and parents in the community grew out of a talk session to promote the awareness of what was behind the hospitalization of an East Junior High student after taking a "pill."

***
It was revealed that the students in the school were passing and selling prescription drugs and marijuana.

Rep. Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti) said that "crisis brings about change" as he addressed the group, which met in St. Mark's United Methodist Church.

The group may use as guidelines a program slated to begin soon in the Van Buren School District. It includes a series of speakers and films on narcotics and the results of their abuse.

Charles W. Bole, Van Buren Board of Education president, said they became aware of a growing problem about a year ago while observing some students.

He said their education program involves students as well as resource people and materials.

As formulation of the Ypsilanti community group was being discussed, it was suggested to invite student leaders from the sixth grades in the area to participate in the series also.

'Trusts' bolstered:

Nixon sees trip as a success

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has returned from his five-nation sprint across Western Europe, confident that he has established a man-to-man relationship with allied leaders based on a new feeling of trust.

Nixon told the crowd of congressional leaders, administration officials and diplomats who greeted him in the snowy, freezing weather at nearby Andrews Air Force Base that his impression of the eight-day, 10,500-mile trip could be "summed up by the word trust."

"I sensed there was a new trust on the part of Europeans for the United States growing out of the fact that there are open channels with the United States," Nixon told the shivering crowd.

He went on: "I think there is developing a new trust in the future" based on allied confidence that "together we are going to be able to develop new understanding with those who have opposed us on the other side of the world."

Top advisers who accompanied the President were tired but jubilant after the nine-hour flight home from Rome. They said the mission had set a new tone of confidence in allied capitals.

Nixon himself rested in the cabin of Air Force One during the final leg of a hectic sequence of travels, talks and ceremonies which began a week ago Sunday.

Like every day of the journey, Sunday was a long and tightly scheduled round of business. It was, because of the six-hour time difference between Rome and Washington, the longest of all.

Meeting the President at the Air Force base in nearby Maryland were his wife, other members of the family, most of his cabinet and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The vice president suffered a slight cut on his nose when he slipped on the icy cement just after the plane landed. Nixon also slipped as he started to review the honor guard, but an aide caught his elbow and he did not fall.

After the brief ceremony and his equally short remarks, Nixon boarded a helicopter and flew to the White House.

Nixon announced no visitors for today. He planned to devote much of his time at the White House to domestic matters and routine affairs set aside while he traveled. Tuesday the President was to report to the National Security Council on the European mission. He planned to brief Republican and Democratic Congressional leaders later Tuesday or Wednesday.

Thursday, Nixon will give his accounting to the nation at large in a statement and an hour-long news conference. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, meanwhile, is to begin within a few days talks in Washington with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. These conferences are to deal with the search for settlement in the Middle East. ## Light out on W. Cross St.

For a yet-to-be-known reason the traffic light at the intersection of W. Cross St. and N. Summit St. was removed last week. Neither the State Road Commission, which did the removing or the County Road Commission could comment specifically on why the traffic light was taken away. An attempt to eliminate the "rush hour" backflow of traffic from Cross's intersection with Washtenaw Ave. might be the reason why.

Ypsilanti teachers Plan negotiations

A six-man negotiation team has been appointed to represent the Ypsilanti Education Association (YEA) when discussions on a new teachers' contract for the next school year begin sometime this month or in April.

Selected to serve on the teachers' bargaining team were Mrs. Rose Tapp, Ernie Ladany, Cecil Hebrs, James Bohn, Richard Martell and Richard Buccos.

Currently, Ypsilanti public school teachers are operating under a three-years contract which expires in June.

According to Ypsilanti Superintendent of Schools Dr.

Ray Barber, YEA has requested the Board of Education to arrange an initial meeting day sometime this month to open the teachers' contract for discussion.

At this point, Richard Skinner, chairman of the YEA's Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee — the group which appointed the negotiating team — declined to elaborate on the Specific demands the teachers will be making.

However, the Ypsilanti High School teacher indicated that the negotiations will involve all contract areas, including salaries and working conditions.

Skinner added that YEA is seeking an upgrading of the quality of pupil instruction. "We will go into more detail for better education," he said.

Skinner indicated that the teachers may be interested in a shorter contract than the current three-year arrangement. "A multi-year contract is becoming less and less common among school districts," he stated.

3 seats expiring:

Robb eyes Second term On council

City Councilman Richard N. Robb, setting his sights on another two-year term in office, today announced he'll run in the April 7 election.

A 32-year-old Ypsilanti native, Dr. Robb, a dentist, first came on the City Council in April, 1967, after outdistancing seven opponents in his first bid for elective office.

Selected Ypsilanti's "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" in January, Robb was further designated one of Michigan's five "Outstanding Young Men of 1968". He is single and lives at 1637 Whittier Blvd.

***
Robb is the second announced candidate for one of the three expiring council seats held by himself, Vaughn E. Filsinger and Mayor John H. Burton. Both Filsinger and the mayor have indicated that they will not seek re-election.

John N. Kirkendall, an attorney and president of the Ypsilanti Jaycees, last week was the first candidate to announce for the upcoming election.

Deadline for filing petitions for candidacy is March 15.

In announcing his bid for re-election, Robb saw his position as an Eastern Michigan University regent as a means to develop better community-college rapport.

***
"I believe I can be of assistance in translating community concern and support for Eastern Michigan University as we all seek to see that irresponsible elements bent on violating the law do not take over or disrupt the campus or any part of our city," he said.

Robb also counts experience as an asset, noting that "our community is in the midst of a number of significant projects I am anxious to see completed and I feel my experience on the Council will be helpful if voters wish to return me to office."

... will run again

Robb graduated from Ypsilanti High School in 1954 and EMU in 1958. After serving two years in the Army, he returned to earn his degree in dentistry at the University of Michigan.

***
Robb began his civic service in 1966 when he was appointed by Burton to the first Ypsilanti Youth Commission, and in August, 1967, former Gov. George Romney named him to the 10-member State Youth Commission on which he still serves.

In November, 1967, Romney appointed Robb to fill an expired EMU regent term, and reappointed him this January for a full eight-year term.

Robb's other civic activities include Ypsilanti Rotary Club directorship; chairmanship of the Inter-Services Club Council; and membership in the Forum Club, Ypsilanti Area Chamber of Commerce, Ypsilanti Jaycees, and local and county Republican Committees.

Petition backs EMU in protest

A citizen drive to commend police and Eastern Michigan University authorities in the wake of a recent campus disturbance was launched today.

Petitions are being distributed throughout the area, John N. Kirkendall, president of the Ypsilanti Jaycees, announced today. He said the campaign is to support "the firm stand taken by EMU officials in the face of student demonstrations, threatened class boycotts and other campus disruptions."

A group of businessmen and local taxpayers approached the Jaycees to head the drive, Kirkendall said, and have offered to finance expenses of printing the petitions and funding the citizen campaign. "The drive is designed," Kirkendall said, "to highlight the fact that the Ypsilanti community is anxious to encourage the responsible elements of the University to be heard in this matter. It also reflects citizen support for the swift and efficient police action shown thus far."

Addressed to the EMU Board of Regents and administration, the petitions contain the explanation that the signers "provide EMU with tax monies and we expect in return an atmosphere conducive to academic achievement." They also "commend the firm decision to

Students tell of drugs' presence

A pretty girl with long hair shading her face said, "I go to Ypsi High. There are drugs there. All over."

She was talking to residents who had gathered to discuss an incident at East Junior High School where drug traffic had been revealed.

The residents were told that the problem was not confined to a junior high, a high school or a college campus but that it is "all over."

But a college student, one of two Eastern Michigan University students and a Cleary College student who were interviewed, said:

"I don't know of anybody that would sell to junior high kids. The guys I know won't even sell to high school students."

When asked what she specifically was talking about, the Ypsilanti High School girl said, "marijuana."

"Pot parties and 'blowing grass,' students said are regular occurrences. 'It's a kick. It's turning on and it's turning off.'"

Police Chief Ray H. Walton said the drug use in the Ypsilanti area had increased in recent years. He also said that it did not "mushroom" overnight.

State Rep. Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti) said he receives almost daily letters from young adults now attending universities who are seeking more liberal laws on restraints on student drug use.

He said that these are the people who soon will be standing up in a classroom advocating "individual everything."

The individual versus the society debate was raised in regard to student pressures. Smith called for a hard line, and Walton said that even if his son were involved in something like drug peddling he himself would turn the youth in for the good of society.

A society where "teachers don't even act like human beings, or don't act as if they ciety.

Smith said that many young people today have been turned loose and are running loose like strays. He said the family and the court system is at fault here.

The representative said that it is the "long hairs" and the SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) that exemplify this "turned loose" generation. He said they in turn have infected society.

A society where "teachers don't even act like human beings, or don't act as if they care about the students" was drawn by the Ypsilanti High School student.

She said some teachers at the high school act like they know everything and the student is nothing. "Big bosses," she said.

The girl said she respects teachers who act with authority but who act like "real people." She said that these are the kind of teachers that can be considered friends.

When asked if she knows who "smokes grass" at the high school she said, "I know the students who take it... I wouldn't rat on the kids."

"They are my friends, if they want to do it, I won't stop them... if they don't want help I can't make them get it."

She said she wouldn't feel threatened at school even if she did tell who users were. She said she did not know any pushers.

Regarding the idea of searching lockers she said the kids "aren't dumb enough to keep the stuff there."

The interview of the college students was prompted by the citizens' meeting regarding drug abuse in the junior high level and high school level in the Ypsilanti area school systems.

At the meeting parents and educators asked if the college community atmosphere was responsible for the drug prevalence.

The students who mused about the possible pusher said they knew of a person who might sell to a "pre-teen."

They added it was risky because everybody is affected differently by grass. They added that LSD was even worse because "not everybody had the head for it."

One of the students said he had been taking drugs for about a year. He said he had started "blowing grass" just as an experiment and did not consider himself hooked.

He said he had had a "bad trip" with LSD. Another student said he knew of kids who had gotten "really messed up" because of drugs and was laying off.

Talking about "turning on" other people to drugs they had said that often the first time the smoker may not even get high. They also said grass could be cut with other drugs for different kicks.

One had said that grass was okay, but that opium was a different story. "That's like hard stuff."

The "stuff" is available. An Ann Arbor high school student said he could probably get it from a teacher.

As the mother of two East Junior High School students had indicated, "The kids harvest it themselves."

The "long hairs" who make up the hippie element in the student subculture were singled out as drug users. However a student who had been in the market for some grass said the guy he finally got it from was "straight looking," and he indicated a real business man.

Parochial should build Into 1969's biggest battle

LANSING (AP) — The most controversial and soul-trying question to come before the Michigan Legislature this year appears to be whether the state shall give financial assistance to nonpublic schools.

There have been bitter skirmishes in the past over such proposed assistance, but indications are that all-out war lies ahead in 1969.

Proponents and opponents have organized, battle lines have been drawn and sniping begun. Heat of debate to come may rival that over slavery in the 1850s.

Some view the issue as one of "individual liberties which affect the rights of citizens to choose their schools." Others view it as an attempt to knock down the traditional concept of separation of church and state.

Former Gov. George Romney and newly installed Gov. Miliken took away from the Legislature the perennial throat-cutting issue of taxes when they told it their jointly proposed budget would need no new or increased levies.

But these two reignited the fuse of the bomb now known as "parochial."

In his final message to the Legislature, Romney suggested that parochial schools might limit themselves to religious education and "leave secular education to the state."

A Mormon, whose church does not operate parochial secondary schools, Romney made his suggestion as an alternative to use of state funds to assist nonpublic schools.

"Rather than starting down a new expensive road with no assurance that it will accomplish needed objectives," Romney said, "I urge the state and churches to reassess their respective roles in education."

"I suggest we seriously consider whether it would not be more desirable to leave secular education to the state, with the churches — all churches — concentrating on weekday religious and moral instructions on a more formal and systematic basis for all children of their faith."

marijuana — at the schools, Walton answered, "We know there are narcotics in the area."

***

Walton, Filsinger, and Smith all pointed to restraints placed on police and school officials in dealing with students. They said punishment was difficult and that any type of locker search involved getting a search warrant.

They pointed to the students' rights guidelines currently under fire as obstacles in such causes.

Smith also pointed out that lax punishments from the courts hampered progress in the area of drug abuse because the youngster involved was not impressed with the severity of his actions.

Filsinger and a substitute teacher indicated their work in the schoolroom was often difficult because the youngsters seemed to resent authority.

***

Another teacher who had substituted within the system and was also an instructor at Eastern Michigan University while studying for a master's degree, stressed a moral responsibility and attitude.

In addressing himself to a problem which was admittedly already strongly set, Rep. Smith asked why shouldn't youngsters resort to drugs.

"This is a pill society," he said. "For a stomach ache, take a pill. The mother always just says here..."

The parents and a community "that doesn't know anything" also came under fire at the session. Walton stressed the need to have evidence in drug cases.

Filsinger indicated that a youngster would be protected from any "retaliation" from the offending student if evidence was provided at East.

Comments from the floor noted that, in a university community such as Ypsilanti, drug use would be more common, and therefore access from the college student to the high school student and then into the junior highs was natural.

As the account of drug traffic at East was unraveled, a spokesman from Willow Run said "we have it too." The board of education president of the Belleville-Van Buren area, Charles W. Bole said they realized they had a problem there last year and were planning an education program to combat it.

***

"I have tremendous faith in the youngsters," he said. He said they aided in finding the boys when it was learned that pills were being passed last week.

The "pusher" or person who supplies the drugs to the youngsters, was of concern to the parents.

***

A ninth grader at East said he did not know of any college student who pushed drugs at the school. He said the kids grow marijuana themselves.

"There's some out by the Calvary Baptist Church and around Ford's," he said. His mother added, "The kids harvest it themselves."

Sponberg gives plea For over-all cooperation

Asking for an end to anxiety and fear on the Eastern Michigan University campus, President Harold E. Sponberg pleaded in a speech released today for all-University cooperation in seeking an end to disruption.

The University should return "not to the status quo, for a university responding to challenge is never static, but to a state of calm where we can discuss our problems and find their solutions," Sponberg said.

He explained in detail the background of the events of

Feb. 20 and 21, when a group of 50 or 60 persons, most of them EMU students, locked themselves in Pierce Hall to demand a meeting with President Sponberg, at which they were to present a list of 11 "demands."

Police cut the chains from the Pierce doors and arrested 13 of the demonstrators on charges of conspiring to create a disturbance. Cases are pending.

First word of the possibility of a disruption came the night before, Sponberg said, from non-campus police agencies, indicating non-students were involved in the planning of the disruption.

"The good work of this faculty and student body was, then, my major concern," the president said.

Believing the University's own 12 man security force might not be able to insure security of important records and documents if a major disruption took place, the University asked other police agencies to stand by. When the group moved into Pierce and chained the doors, he said, other police moved in and made their arrests.

"Our choice was not between arrest and no arrest, but between arrest with the State Police signing the complaint and arrest with the University signing the complaint," he said.

"We chose — and you can criticize us for this choice — to sign the complaint, believing that our involvement in the legal proceedings would benefit the students."

Sponberg said he believed the arrests were not violent, as he has seen no evidence of any student being injured.

As to dropping charges against the demonstrators, as has been demanded as a prelude to any negotiations, Sponberg said too many questions remain unanswered and that such action might set an undesirable precedent. Also, only the court can authorize dropping charges.

Were all involved in the disturbance equally guilty? Sponberg indicated that he suspects not. "Investigation so far indicates that some may be deeply involved, while other may only be young people caught up in the passion of a moment."

Two of the arrested were not students. "What should be our treatment of them? Would dropping of all charges create a situation in which anyone could come on this campus and cause a disruption with the knowledge that no action would be taken against him?" Sponberg said.

He promised to move forward to consider what he believes to be the demands of the students, even though they have refused to meet until amnesty is pledged.

"I do not endorse the tactics of confrontation," Sponberg said, "and I regret the actions which seemed an attempt to intimidate anyone through personal pressures."

However, he said, his personal attitude would not prevent him from attempting to influence change where it seems in the best interests of the University philosophy.

Progress, he concluded, cannot be achieved by one person working alone. "I need your help. We must all work together."

The speech was delivered to an invited group of student leaders Thursday night, but was not made public until today.

Still OEO financed:

Day care program Now under way At Cherry Hill

Day care for almost 20 preschoolers from the now-defunct WRAND Day Care Center began today at the Cherry Hill Nursery.

Bus transportation was also provided for the youngsters to the nursery facility, after the vehicle's breakdown and an eviction notice from WRAND's Metropolitan Memorial Baptist Church facility forced the center to close last week.

According to Mrs. Beverly Poindexter, director of the Washtenaw County Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) agency, the county OEO will finance the children's day care at Cherry Hill Nursery until final determination is made on what type of day care services the agency will offer.

Such determination will be made after a county-wide canvass is made among the poor to decide what type of day care service would be desirable. A possible replacement mentioned for the WRAND center has been a combined Head Start-day care program.

The OEO director stated that Cherry Hill Nursery is handling those WRAND children who could not be located on an individual basis in facilities elsewhere.

Cherry Hill Nursery has agreed to accept a maximum of 20 children, according to Mrs. Poindexter, in recent months the WRAND's total enrollment has been about 26-27 preschoolers.

She emphasized that any "poor" persons working at the WRAND Center will receive the county OEO agency's assistance in finding jobs elsewhere. The director added the three of the WRAND technical personnel have been retained to assist Cherry Hill personnel with the additional pupil load.

C.P. STEIMLE

EMU's 'Flying' QB dead

Funeral services for Clements P. (C.P.) Steimle, who served Eastern Michigan University as registrar for 40 years, will be buried Wednesday afternoon at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church.

Mr. Steimle, who had lived with his wife in California near his three sons and a daughter died in California at the age of 90 on Saturday.

Rosary for the retired EMU registrar will be at 7:15 p.m. tomorrow at Moore Funeral Home and the funeral mass will be at 5 p.m. at St. John's Cemetery.

Steimle was well known throughout the state as a football and track official and had been a "multi-sport" athlete during his college days at EMU. He officiated over the years in football and track at many high school and college events around the state of Michigan.

He is recalled as the "flying quarterback" in the days of the flying wedge, because he was tossed over the scrimmage line by his bigger backfield teammates. His brother played on the same team while he was at EMU.

Coming to the then Michigan State Normal College in 1900 from his home in Atlantic Mine in the Upper Peninsula, he earned a life certificate in 1902 and taught and coached several sports at Albion High School in 1902 and 1903. The following year, he served as principal at Hillsdale High School and in 1905 returned to Ypsilanti as an instructor in mathematics at the Normal.

In 1906, he received his bachelor of pedagogy and in 1907, his bachelor's of arts.

In 1909, he became the college's first registrar and held that position for 40 years, retiring in 1949.

As registrar emeritus, Steimle was honored in 1957 with the Alumni Honors Award.

Married to the former Mary Graham, who taught at Lincoln Consolidated School, he was one of the early members of the Rotary Club and a member of St. John's Church.

Surviving besides his wife are three sons, Jerome (Jerry) Steimle of Menlo Park, Calif., Anthony and David H. of San Jose, Calif., a daughter, Mrs. Charles (Mary) W. Coger of San Jose, a brother, Russel of Huron Town, Mich., two sisters, Mrs. Carl (Bertha) Jauch of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Gertrude Pryor of Birmingham, and 16 grandchildren. A son, Peter, and a granddaughter are deceased.

Born in Atlantic Mine, Aug. 21, 1878, he was in the first graduating class in the Atlantic Mine High School,

Other schools close:

St. John's status Depends on drive

Due to the efforts of the "Save St. John's High School Committee," which is conducting a pledge drive and internal canvass to resolve the school's financial crisis, the March 1 directive from the archdiocese indicated the fate of the school now depends on the success of that drive.

Although no specific mention of St. John's was made by Archbishop John E. Dearden, the closing of the eighth grade of St. Mary's School in Chelsea was authorized. The notification said that grades one through seven would remain in operation.

St. Mary's is one of five schools in the eight-county archdiocese which were notified to close because of financial crises.

In all, 638 children were affected by the directive which confirmed decisions reached by pastors and parishioners.

Effective this September, grades one through six of St. James School in Ferndale and grades seven and eight of St. Martha School in Dearborn will be closed.

St. Bernadette School in Dearborn will be completely phased out and the first stages of completely phasing out St. Alphonsus School in Dearborn also will be set this fall.

The Rev. Father John B. Zwiers, superintendent of archdiocese schools, said that other schools were endangered by financial crises.

He raised concern for the Catholic schools in Detroit's inner city, where he said public school facilities are already greatly strained.

Car goes into ditch; Ypsilanti man killed

A 19-year-old youth was killed Sunday morning at 1:15 a.m. when the car he was driving ran out of control and into a ditch on I-94 in Pittsfield Township.

Curtis Williams, of 820 Short St., was killed when he was thrown from the car. A passenger, Charlie Butler, 19, of 544 Madison St. was also thrown from the car, but received no serious injuries.

Williams was driving at an apparent high rate of speed on westbound I-94, when his car sped out of control and ran into the ditch just east of U.S. -23 and turned over, Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies said.

The death was the sixth auto accident fatality this year, equalling the 1969 total at this date, and the second in as many days.

Loan aide recovers In Arborland shooting

Recovering from a wound through his left leg is Melvin R. Persky, 21, of St. Clair Shores, the assistant manager of the General Finance Loan Co. located in the Arborland Shopping Center, after two white men attempted to rob him at noon Saturday.

Although normally closed on Saturday, Persky was working on some paper work when the two men entered the loan company and demanded money.

Telling the men that the money was locked up and he could not reach it, he gave the men $11 he had in his billfold.

Persky, moments later, tried to seize the arm of one of the bandits and the gunman, then shooting point-blank, at Persky, missed him by two inches. After knocking the manager down the gunman again shot at him, hitting him in his leg.

The bandits left with no one coming forward telling of seeing or hearing anything of the shooting.

The Ann Arbor City Police are still investigating the robbery.

Civil Rights law is double-edged

By PAUL A. SCOTT
WASHINGTON — Colleges and Universities that surrender to demands of militant black student groups for segregated Negro study programs and dormitories will soon learn that the 1964 Civil Rights law is a double-edged sword.

The Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has begun quietly warning school heads across the country that "it is just as illegal to discriminate against whites as blacks in education and college housing."

All educational institutions engaging in such discrimination in the future, the HEW officials say, will face possible loss of federal assistance for violating Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The crucial issue of possible violation of the Civil Rights Act has arisen in a little-noticed landmark case involving a Negro study program established last fall at Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, a school noted for its far-left tradition.

After receiving the green light from the White House, Solomon Arbeiter, higher education coordinator for the Civil Rights Office, wrote Antioch authorities last month requesting "all information pertaining to the school's Black Studies Institute."

In his letter, Arbeiter said that it has come to his Department's attention "that Antioch College has recently instituted a Black Studies Institute and that admission to the Institute is limited to Negro students. Further, it has been reported that a dormitory housing students at the institute will not admit white students."

"If these allegations are correct," Arbeiter wrote, "this constitutes a violation of Title VI of the 1964 civil rights law, which requires an institution of higher education receiving federal funds to offer its services and benefits to all students, regardless of race, color or national origin."

Arbeiter stressed that Antioch would have to correct any Title VI violations "if the college is to continue to receive federal assistance" under several educational programs.

Dr. James P. Dixon, president of Antioch, responded to Arbeiter in a 3-page letter dated Feb. 19 that sounded like many of those written by Southern school heads opposing a cut-off of funds on the grounds that their schools were not integrated. The liberal Antioch president charged that a "literal interpretation of the Civil Rights Act by the department would be a great tragedy."

In opposing the fund cutoff, he stressed that enforcement of the law might deny Negro students rights the white students long have had at Antioch to set up special experimental programs. Dixon explained that the Negro studies program, called the Afro-American Studies Institute, was established by a group of Negro students at Antioch, with a backing of the college. He reported the college has provided the institute with financial support. The experimental all-black study program was designed to serve as a prototype for other colleges throughout the country.

Because of the far-reaching significance of the Antioch test case, Dr. Dixon's reply and the other evidence in the controversy have been turned over to HEW Secretary Robert Finch. Aides report Finch will delay any crack-down against the college until he has a chance to discuss the case with President Nixon. The warning by the HEW to other colleges was a preventive move to avoid future Antioch cases.

Ignorance and apathy are Modern man's deadly sins

Most Americans aren't much interested in what goes on in the world.

The charge is made by Alfred Hero, executive secretary of the World Peace Foundation, summing up the findings of a study published by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center.

The public has often been ignorant or apathetic or both, he says, about the major foreign and domestic issues of the past three decades.

In the area of foreign affairs, for instance, Americans have had little awareness of the nature and purpose of the reciprocal trade program, the Marshall Plan or various later foreign aid programs. Majorities of them have also been unable to identify such leading international figures as Marshal Tito or the U.S. secretary of state.

Likewise, the samples interviewed lacked information on such domestic issues as tax reform, farm policy and even race relations.

It's not as bad as it sounds, however. While only about 5 per cent of the population can be called accurately informed, the chronic "know-nothings" have declined from roughly 35 per cent in the 1930s to 15 to 20 per cent in the late 1960s.

The rise in educational levels and wider exposure to mass media have undoubtedly increased the number of people who hold knowledgeable and meaningful opinions on major issues, thinks Hero, despite the fact that, in the public's mind at least, the issues seem more complicated today than they formerly did.

Medieval man had seven deadly sins to guard against; for modern Americans there are just two — ignorance and apathy. They have nothing to do with the salvation of the individual soul, but they bear very directly on the preservation of a democratic nation.

Czechs give U.S. visitors 'Favored nation' treatment

(Editor's Note: The following is part of a series written by an administrator at the University of Michigan following his latest visit to Czechoslovakia. The author, 30, asks that readers send books and other library materials duty-free to the Department of English, U.I. Gressova 3, Presov, Czechoslovakia.)

By DONALD E. MILLER

If you have seen most of the world and are looking for a rewarding experience on your next trip — or if you have seen nothing and want to make your first big trip one to remember — why not consider a trip to Czechoslovakia. The country is beautiful beyond description and what is more, has not undergone the ravages of commercial tourism. Its people are hospitable to all visitors, but their interest, curiosity and warmth for Americans is exceptional. America probably has no greater ally and supporter in the world than the people of Czechoslovakia, and American tourists in Czechoslovakia benefit greatly from this fact of Czechoslovak life. Let me give you a few examples.

In Bratislava, Czechoslovakia's second largest city, "Fiddler On The Roof" was being performed on stage. I was dying to see it. There was only one performance which I could attend, however, and it was completely sold out. Here's what happened when my friend Richard and I tried to get tickets:

Richard: Could we please have two tickets to tonight's performance of "Fiddler On The Roof?"

Ticket-Seller: I'm sorry, but tonight's performance is sold out.

Richard: Isn't there anything? Standing room? This is our last night in Bratislava, and we'd like very much to see it.

Me (aside): Richard, tell her I'm American.

Richard: Excuse me. I forgot to mention that my friend over there is American. He saw the play in New York and would like very much to compare it with this production here in Bratislava.

Me (in the Czech language): If it's possible, I would like to see "Fiddler On The Roof" please. Thank you.

This was already too much for one poor Czechoslovak ticket-seller to take. She picked up the phone and talked with her boss. That night, Richard and I watched "Fiddler On The Roof" from two of the better seats in the house. It was a magnificent production.

Let you think that example was the exception rather than the rule, here's what happened in Presov, when Richard wanted to buy for me some Czechoslovak records to take back to the United States:

Richard: I'd like to have a copy of "Massachusetts" (the biggest current hit in Czechoslovakia) on a 45 r.p.m., please.

Store-clerk (gruffly): So would fifty other people. We're out of it. We don't know when we'll have it in (He then walked away.)

Richard: Excuse me. It's not for me. It's for my friend over there. He's an American and lives near Massachusetts.

Me (in the Slovak language): Hello. How are you?

Store-clerk: You're American! I have a brother in America. He lives near Chicago.

So, again, the defenses caved in. He left his other customers (there were six or seven of them, as I recall) and spent a half-hour with us. Not only did he "happen" to find a copy of "Massachusetts," but he selected five or six others "that I am sure you would enjoy listening to back in America."

It has been my experience, in my travels, that Americans do not often get "favored nation" treatment in many countries around the world. In Czechoslovakia, such treatment is regarded as our national, and natural, right.

What happened to democracy in Ypsi?

TO THE EDITOR:

In just a few more years we will be celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. The City Council represents the system of representation followed in England at the time we declared our independence and not the type we fought a long war to secure.

The British theory was that of virtual representation. No matter where they were elected from, these people represented the entire British Empire. The American colonies had no representatives in the British Parliament, but were told they were represented by their theory. We declared our independence in 1776 to secure actual representation where every area or district or state elects a representative.

What happened to this American democracy in Ypsilanti? How many of the Council members live on the west side of town? As always under a city manager form of government, this is a case of no equal representation.

When we vote on this 'peek-a-boo' housing ordinance, we should also be voting to restore Ypsilanti to an equalized democratic alderman system of government.

Reader applauds EMU's firm stand

TO THE EDITOR:

The Press article of Feb. 20 entitled "EMU Protest Planned" was good factual reporting of the attempts of a Communist-inspired society to overthrow the government that has made our nation a safe place for these insurrectionists, welfare recipients and people who feel that to demand is to receive.

The massive force of police brought to the EMU campus to curtail the illegal invasion and to prevent the malicious destruction that has been a part of other such "peaceful demonstrations" was certainly well-advised and is cheering to the middle-class taxpayer who is footing the bills of the university.

The 13 students arrested MUST stand trial before being again released on our civilized society. The courts should show no leniency to these who would destroy our university.

If the black students at EMU want an Afro-American culture center, why don't they form one along the lines of the fraternities and sororities?

Peter Murdock should wake up to the fact that the SDS is set up to overthrow our government and to turn our people and our universities over to the Russians and the Cubans. After that time there will be no more "peaceful demonstrations."

The black negotiators at EMU should abandon their childish demand for the amnesty of the 13 in jail and present their requests to the faculty and administration in a mature manner as adults as a university should, not in the form of demands that they have used before.

What do you want living next to you?

TO THE EDITOR:

W. R. Fredenburg recently wrote, that it would be easy to place sensors in hostile ICBMs so that they would explode when they detected an approaching ABM missile. I believe the United States government would very much appreciate this since it would then no longer be necessary to place warheads in our ABM system. An incoming ICBM would simply explode when it sensed our ABMs.

The missile exploding in the upper atmosphere would do little if any damage. The ABM system is designed to intercept hostile missiles while they are still many miles up. A missile does not follow the same flight path as an airplane; it leaves the atmosphere almost immediately after take-off and re-enters it only shortly before impact. While the missile is outside of the earth's atmosphere it can do no more damage than tests conducted in the upper atmosphere.

I too am against the ABM systems. They are very expensive and not 100 per cent effective; 60 per cent effectiveness is all that they can possibly achieve. Also, if we build an AMB system then our enemies will soon build one too, which will only put us back where we started from, except for being 70 billion dollars poorer.

The reason I wrote this letter is because I am against the absolutely ridiculous reasons people have for not wanting the ABM system. Some people are against the system because of the chance that it would explode accidentally. The chances of a nuclear warhead being detonated by accident are not nearly as great as the chance of a person being killed while hunting or while driving a car. I would rather live next to a missile silo than next to a bar. . .

Cong troops attack Marines below DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops attacked another U.S. Marine base below the demilitarized zone today and shelled Saigon and more than 30 other towns and allied bases in the ninth day of the Viet Cong's spring offensive. Scores of North Vietnamese troops, blazing away with machine guns and rifles, attacked about 300 Marines at an artillery base four miles southeast of the DMZ. The Marines turned their artillery on the attackers, and the fighting was still going on seven hours after the first attack. U.S. headquarters said at least 17 North Vietnamese and "some" Marines had been killed. It was the fourth time since the enemy offensive began that heavy fighting had broken out just below the DMZ. Three 100-pound Soviet rockets hit Saigon, killing 12 Vietnamese civilians, wounding 29 others and wrecking more than 30 houses just before dawn. A South Vietnamese spokesman called the attack "savagely, barbarous and bloodthirsty." One of the six-foot missiles smashed into the ground three yards from a crowded children's hospital ward. The blast sprayed chunks of metal about, ripped through shutters and smashed mirrors and walls, but only one of the 72 children was injured. A 13-year-old girl got a slight cut on her head. Another rocket tore through the roof of a house in a crowded residential area on the southern edge of the city, killing a family of nine and touching off fires that spread to more than 30 of the small, two-story tin-roofed houses. Three other civilians were killed and 25 wounded. It was the third rocket attack on the capital city of Saigon since the North last Nov. three million residents since the offensive began Feb. 23. Two volleys of rockets 14 hours apart on the first day killed 15 civilians and wounded 49. The new attack on Saigon put pressure on President Nixon to decide whether such shelling violates a tacit agreement which U.S. officials say North Vietnam made in exchange for the end to the bombing of the North last Nov.

Israelis name woman Acting prime minister

JERUSALEM (AP) — Leaders of the Mapai faction of Israel's Labor party nominated Mrs. Golda Meir on Sunday night to be prime minister until the fall election. A spokesman said there was one abstention—believed to be Defense Minister Moshe Dayan —when Cabinet ministers from the Labor party met to choose a candidate. The party meets next Sunday to elect a successor to Levi Eshkol, who died last Wednesday. Dayan's Rafi faction, which accounts for 22 per cent of the Labor party, has said it will not support Mrs. Meir. Mrs. Meir, the 70-year-old former foreign minister, has said she is not anxious to accept because of her health, and it was not immediately known whether she would. A party spokesman said the ministers, who were called together by acting Premier Yigal Allon, Dayan's chief rival, would appeal to her to accept the nomination. Mrs. Meir and others in control of the party have long been opposed to Dayan, who has an aide popular following but little political power base. She is known to favor Allon but to feel that he could not build a sufficient following among Israel's many political factions. Along and Dayan probably will face each other in the fall election. In Syria, the funeral for Col. Abdel Kram Jundi, the secret police chief who reportedly committed suicide Saturday night, showed that the nation's political turmoil has not been resolved. Jundi had been a chief ally of President Nouredin Atassi and Maj. Gen. Salah Jadid, who was reputed to be the strongman of the Baath Socialist party. Atassi and Jadid were reported ousted in a coup last week led by Lt. Gen. Hafez Assad, but both attended Jundi's funeral riding in the presidential car. Government informants later reported Assad and Jadid had reached a truce and decided to hold a general conference of the Baath party in 10 days to resolve the conflict. They said Assad felt sufficiently strong to allow this concession. Israel's Foreign Ministry said Sunday it had learned that Iraq intends to hang another group of alleged spies, including three Jews, today or Tuesday. Spokesman Shmuel Ovnath said Israel was doing everything it could to mobilize world organizations, governments and public opinion to avert the executions. Fourteen Iraqis were publicly executed as spies in Baghdad last January, and because nine of them were Jews there was widespread condemnation abroad. In February, eight persons were executed, but none of them were Jews and the foreign protests were minimal.

Winning De Gaulle Praised

LONDON (AP)—The most remarkable achievement of President Nixon's European tour was his winning the confidence of President Charles de Gaulle, some West European newspapers said today. But some said months must pass before it becomes clear whether Nixon's personal triumph in five European capitals can be transformed into practical measures to improve contacts between Western Europe and the United States. While Western commentators judged the eight-day trip a success, Communist reactions were guarded. The East German news agency ADN reported in a one-paragraph story, "during the trip there were powerful anti-American demonstrations, especially in Rome and Paris." Pravda, the only newspaper published in Moscow this morning, ran two brief accounts by the Soviet news agency Tass. Soviet newspapers have avoided criticism of Nixon's tour, apparently because the government does not want to endanger negotiations shaping up between the Soviet Union and the United States. In Geneva, the independent La Suisse said: "The two days that Nixon spent in Paris show undisputedly that confidence has taken the place of suspicion, intransigence or systematic misunderstanding." West Germany's Frankfurt Abendpost said Nixon's trip has improved "the climate of unity between both continents and the special climate between the U.S.A. and France." Le Figaro, which usually reflects the views of the French government, Nixon and De Gaulle had started examining the world situation together "in a new spirit without reference to what Mr. Nixon called 'old slogans' and 'old quarrels.'" But other Paris newspapers said the atmosphere between Paris and Washington may be improved but problems persist. The conservative L'Aurore commented: "Beneath the excellent words of courtesy, it escapes no one that the divergences subsists."

Nixon's visit encourages Ky

PARIS (AP) — President Nixon's meeting with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky reportedly has given Ky the feeling that Nixon is more willing to play for time in the peace talks than his predecessor. A Sou Vietnamese source said Sunday the Saigon delegation in Paris now feels reassured the United States is not overhasty to reach a quick agreement. The source said Saigon felt President Johnson's administration had been too preoccupied with the search for a quick settlement on matters that need more time for negotiation. Ky conferred with Nixon for 45 minutes Sunday, 10 minutes in private and the rest in the company of Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris peace talks.

Soviets challenge Berlin air paths

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union has confronted the Western Big Three with one of the most serious challenges to West Berlin's flight corridors since the airlift that broke the blockade 20 years ago. Meanwhile, the West Berlin city government made an 11th hour attempt to negotiate with the East Germans. Mayor Klaus Schuetz's office cabled East Berlin late Sunday asking the Communists if they were "willing to talk" about settlement of the dispute over holding of the West German presidential election in West Berlin Wednesday. There was no immediate reply. The focus of the war of nerves over holding the election in West Berlin shifted Sunday from the surface routes to the air corridors. The Soviet air control officer warned the U.S., British and French representatives at the West Berlin air safety center that Moscow could not guarantee the security of Western planes flying the 1,036 presidential electors to West Berlin. East Germany has already barred the electors from the surface routes to the Communist-encircled city. The Western allies, still the occupation powers in West Berlin, rejected the warning and told the Russians orally that they continued to hold the Soviet Union responsible for the safety of all American, British and French flights in the three air corridors over East Germany. Earlier Sunday, East German soldiers for two hours blocked the east bound lane on the autobahn between Helmstedt, West Germany, and Berlin. It was the second temporary shutdown in as many days of Soviet and East German military maneuvers in the area between Berlin and Helmstedt. Mayor Schuetz said he considered the Soviet warning a serious escalation of the East-West tension. But he said he did not think the Russians would do anything drastic in the air corridors, such as firing on Western planes or forcing them to land in East Germany. However, an allied source conceded the language of the Russian warning "leaves everything open." The Communists charge that postwar four-power agreements on Berlin are violated by West German political activities in the city. The West Germans are holding the election there to reinforce their claim to the city, which the Communists contend is an "independent political entity" under Allied occupation. When he visited West Berlin last Thursday, President Nixon renewed the American commitment to protect the city's freedom and viability. A day earlier in Bonn, he pledged his support to whatever action the West German government took in regard to the presidential election.

Aquonaut's testimony Hits 'death dive' order

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — One of the aquanauts in Sealab 3, the Navy's deep-sea living experiment, says it was wrong to order the dive in which a fellow crewman died. A board of inquiry into the death of aquanaut Berry L. Cannon, 33, also was told of a series of mishaps and what the project chief, Cmdr. J. M. Tomsky, called instances of tampering with equipment. There will "almost certainly" be an investigation, a Navy spokesman said. The current inquiry deals only with Cannon's death. The aquanaut died Feb. 17, minutes after leaving a personnel transfer capsule in an effort to stop helium leaks in the Sealab habitat on the ocean floor 610 feet deep. "The dive should never have been made," the investigators were told Sunday by aquanaut Richard Blackburn, 30, who retrieved Cannon. "We were all pushed to a point where mistakes were inevitable. Our bodies had not adjusted to depth ... We had aches and pains in our joints ... Our mental and physical dexterity was affected by the cold." An autopsy has not been completed. A breathing apparatus which may have been his was later found to be lacking chemicals needed to filter carbon dioxide. Tomsky said that as the surviving aquanauts were undergoing decompression "on two separate occasions an oxygen valve in the emergency breathing system was opened. Then a third apparent tampering with the valve occurred—the valve was partially cracked open." If another main valve had been opened, Tomsky said, pure oxygen would have flushed into the chambers and killed the aquanauts. After the third incident, he said, he posted guards at the two decompression chambers on a 24-hour basis. For two months before Cannon's death, Sealab had been troubled by mishaps. A personnel transport capsule mysteriously flooded last Nov. 30. That forced a two-month delay. Tomsky, testifying Saturday night, said the capsule was being taken into the well of the support ship when a hoist connection broke without apparent reason.

For servicemen:

Family aid rises

Special to The Press
WASHINGTON — Over 107,000 U.S. servicemen and women turned to the American Red Cross for help with personal and family emergencies each month last year with the result that expenditures for services to the armed forces and their families were the highest since World War II.

The total cost came to $48,440,500 — 40 per cent of all American Red Cross expenditures for the 1967-68 fiscal year, James F. Collins, Red Cross president, said today.

Young women, serving as recreational workers in South Vietnam and Korea, traveled a monthly average of 41,300 miles to offer special programs to troops. Each month approximately 315,700 U.S. servicemen participated in these activities.

General Collins also reported that Red Cross workers in chapters served one in every five families of servicemen during the year — an increase of 15 per cent over the previous fiscal year.

Emergency messages handled by the Red Cross to and from overseas totaled 699,100. These messages, ranging from birth announcements to reports regarding critical family emergencies usually involving the serious illness and death of close relatives, do much to relieve the anxiety of U.S. forces and their families at home. They were transmitted at the rate of one every minute, 24 hours a day.

Red cross help also includes veterans and their families. General Collins stated that each month 8,100 veterans received help through Red Cross chapters in obtaining government loans; 1,300 families were given loans and grants from the Red Cross; 13,300 were assisted in making claims for government benefits; and 3,900 families of veterans in personal and family problems received counseling aid.

In addition, some 8,500 volunteers served patients in 166 Veterans Administration hospitals and medical facilities, General Collins said.

The record outlay of funds was attributed to requirements for service generated by the Vietnamese conflict and increases in the U.S. Armed Forces. Over 400 American Red Cross workers provided needed help for an average of 27,500 servicemen each month in Vietnam. Tens of thousands others were reached through American Red Cross recreation programs.

Red Cross volunteers and staff last year were on duty in 30 countries around the world where U.S. forces are stationed.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Neighbors join for crafts

By HELOISE CRUSE
DEAR HELOISE: We have been having more fun at our "coffee klatsches" each morning. . . One of my neighbors taught us how to take colored pictures from magazines, cut them out and then make them look like real oil paintings.

After selecting a picture, glue it on cardboard (old shirt boards are wonderful), and then cover it with real coarse cheesecloth.

Paint the picture with clear shellac, starting at the center and working to the sides. . . let this dry.

You'll need to apply two or three coats of shellac. . . this is where you can achieve different effects on your picture. . . experiment with it!

After finishing the application of the shellac and letting it dry, trim off the cheesecloth around the picture and it's ready for framing.

We've found these to be such fun. . . even our husbands were impressed with our finished results. Mrs. D. N. A. Shades of van Gogh! Would love to join the "Klatch" . . . Have paint brush and easel

. . . willtravel Happy painting, gals! Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I have some suggestions about gifts to give your child's teacher when the occasion calls for it during the year.

Rather than the usual cologne or handkerchiefs, I'm sure all teachers would appreciate floral desk accessories, pill cases, covered clothes hangers, sachet squares for dresser drawers, stretch gloves and rain hats.

These items can be found in almost any department store and are quite inexpensive. A Teacher

You just chalked up an "A" on your report card. . . I'm sure that all the "handkerchief-rich" teachers will appreciate your suggestion. . . we all love and appreciate pretty handkerchiefs, but they do tend to accumulate over the years. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: An easy way to make an effective centerpiece is to use a loaf baking dish or a cobbler pan about eight or nine inches long. Place enough juice glasses or small juice cans in the pan to fill it. The pan may be wrapped with foil or pretty paper.

I like to use roses having stems three to seven inches long, with fern fronds. However, any leaves will do and you can use almost any flower effectively. Mrs. R. P. S.

DEAR HELOISE: I think it's about time we put the blame for our cluttered homes on the real culprit and not us housewives.

It's the furniture manufacturers!

They are the ones that make all furniture and appliances with flat tops and as a result of that it's the perfect catch-all. Why put something away in its proper place when there is such an inviting place so handy?

I think the "Housewives of America" should band together and insist that furniture be made with round or pointed tops. Mary McKenzie

Mary, I not only think it would help. . . I think it would put the American Family in a state of shock.

Can you imagine? No one could find anything! Heloise

This column is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper.

Ypsi women to share Worldwide prayer day

On Friday, all women of Ypsilanti are invited to join with millions of women around the world in the World Day of Prayer.

The Ypsilanti program will be held at 1 at the Second Baptist Church at 301 S. Hamilton St. This international celebration is sponsored by Church Women United.

The World Day of Prayer dates back to 1887. It is the day set aside each year when women are brought together across all the boundaries that divide the world — denominational, racial, national, cultural — to pray for the needs of the world, to express each person's commitment and oneness in Christ, and to give an offering for carrying out the Church's mission in the world.

The theme of this year's program is "Growing Together in Christ", and the spiritual "Kum Ba Yah" will sound the call for recognition and for sharing of one another's joys and sorrows.

Mrs. Paul Woods is chairman for this celebration, and Mrs. Theodore Baker will be the soloist.

Leaders in the service will be Mrs. James Simpson, Mrs. Gordon Wilson, Mrs. Clayborn Taylor, Mrs. Levi Babb and Mrs. Paul Woods.

Greeting women at the church entrance will be Mrs. Loren Brown and Mrs. Harris Olson.

The Second Baptist Church, where the meeting will be held, is nearing its centennial year, and is the oldest Negro Baptist church in our community.

The congregation is making plans for a new church building to be begun this year. The church is a member of the organization called Fish, which helps people in many ways.

The World Day of Prayer offering taken in the United States goes to strengthen particular aspects of the outreach and ministry of Church Women United. In addition to the continuing projects in Christian colleges, Christian literature, migrant ministry, international students, Christian home and family life, Indian Americans, and Church and Community in transition, two new projects are designed each year.

For 1969 the projects relate to the theme "Growing Together in Christ". The first is related to a ministry of reconciliation and healing in our nation at this time of urban crisis. Training will be developed to engage persons who can work in churches and community groups with skills to help change attitudes preventing openness and real community. Second, the time is ripe for the stimulation and structuring of interreligious dialogue in South Vietnam, with a home that a continuing and expanding ministry of this nature can be sustained in the postwar period.

To make the service one of real prayer and relevant to our particular community, there will be a prayer box at the church entrance, and women are asked to leave written special petitions or intercessions they would like to have made during this service. They need not be signed.

Society matrons Chauffeur workers

GROSSE POINTE (AP) — A bus strike affecting this wealthy Detroit suburb has turned business executives and society matrons into chauffeurs for their domestic help.

The minor crisis for home owners was created when the Lake Shore Coach Line was struck Friday. Immediate arrangements involved maids and other help busing to the end of DSR lines, where they are picked up by their employers.

Precedence keyed Flag design, club told

The placement of the stars in America's first flag, recalled in an Americanism talk at the American Legion auxiliary meeting last week, required as much care as did the table shape at the current Paris peace talks.

The first stars, the Rev. Karl Keefer of Ann Arbor, told the women's group, were in a circle so no state had precedence over another.

Mr. Keefer's topic was the history of the U.S. flag when he spoke to the auxiliary to Legion Post 282 at the Legion home last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Keefer were guests of 22 members. Mrs. Fern Maddox, who introduced the speaker.

Mr. Keefer is author of the book "Our Flag Is Still There," which will have its second edition issued within a few weeks. He is the instigator of a program for public schools which has been instituted in Iowa and which he hopes to have accepted in this area. It aims to deepen children's love, respect and appreciation of the flag.

In the United States' overseas wars, Americans are giving their lives so that those countries may have what the U.S. has — freedom, he said.

He identified each star by the order of state entry in the Union, tossing in vignettes about various states, such as Michigan, the 26th state.

The new stars always appear on the flag on the fourth of July and Idaho became a state on July 3, in 1890, he recalled. Twin stars represent the states of North and South Dakota, which entered on the same day.

He drew laughter with his Texas quips — "Texas is the largest state — having the most rivers, but no water, the most cows, but not the most milk, and where one could see the farthest but see less."

All states from Rhode Island to Texas, regardless of size have the same size stars, he stressed.

He stressed also, "We are the only nation in the world which through 37 rulers in 182 years has followed a tradition in succession."

At the meeting, four new members initiated Mrs. Evelyn D. Branch.

At the meeting, four new members were initiated; Mrs. Evelyn D. Branch, Mrs. Robert Pritchard, Mrs. Hubert Foley and Mrs. M. Lloyd Ferguson.

Past presidents who conducted the initiation are Mrs. Brit Eddings and Mrs. A. L. Bailes and Mrs. Adria Wright and Mrs. Frances Knipp, Mrs. Ernest D. Marsh and Mrs. Norma Yates.

The past presidents club presented a fund for the nurse's fund.

Members are planning a party for the Washtenaw County Hospital next Saturday. Last minute plans were announced for today's pancake supper at the Legion Home.

Plans were told for the Legion's social night and birthday party on Wednesday at the Legion Home, with presentation of flags and a talk by the department commander.

A district meeting is set for March 16 at 2:30 p.m. at Jackson.

The auxiliary expressed the desire to join with the Legion in the Blood Bank program on March 5 at the Moose Hall from 1:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Ethel Helfrich of E. Cross St. and her daughter, Mrs. Don Vink, of Holland returned last week from Hawaii where they went to join Mr. and Mrs. Howard Helfrich of Fairview Circle.

The Howard Helfriches arrived home a few days later. They had left the Michigan Alumni group they were touring Hawaii with when Mrs. Helfrich fell at Hilo. She was hospitalized in Honolulu for a month, having broken her knee in two places.

Mrs. Ethel Helfrich and Mrs. Vink combined some sightseeing with their hospital visits, staying at the Hawaiian Village Hotel. They spent five days in San Francisco visiting friends on the way home.

Moon module looks like bug

SPACE CENTER, Houston. (AP) — America's machine for landing men on the moon looks like a giant version of something a housewife would chase with a fly swatter. Or possibly run from.

The machine was originally called a Lunar Excursion Module, or LEM. "Excursion" has been dropped from the official name but astronauts and other spacemen continue to call it LEM. They also call it "the spider" because of its resemblance to that insect.

LEM flies with men aboard for the first time on Apollo 9. Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart will give the space craft a thorough workout in the earth orbit mission.

LEM has none of the slick lines one would expect of a flying machine. It's ugly, clumsy-looking and totally without grace. The outside walls of the craft are a soft, cellophane-like material a man could easily push a foot through.

The spider certainly lacks the look of a noble vessel of exploration. It's more like some weird thing not for this world.

But, actually, the lunar module is both. The 23-foot-tall, 32,000-pound LEM is the first manned spacecraft designed to operate only in other space. LEM cannot fly unprotected in earth's atmosphere and would burn up quickly if it tried to land on earth from space.

LEM is a specialist designed to be carried piggy back to an orbit of the moon, fly two men to the surface, support them while they explore, then divide itself and carry the astronauts back to a rendezvous with the command and service module waiting in lunar orbit.

Since it never flies in "air", or atmosphere, LEM has no need for a sleek aerodynamic shape.

LEM has two stages, a descent stage which is never manned or pressurized, and an ascent stage, which sits on top and contains the crew compartment.

The descent stage is a 12 by 14 foot eight-sided box with four spidly legs angling down and outward. On the flat bottom side of the box is the bell of the descent engine. A platform and a ladder are attached to the leg on the forward side of the descent stage.

The ascent stage is a collection of circles, squares and triangles on the outside around an airtight pressure vessel for the crew.

There are two hatches and three windows on the ascent stage. A round hatch on the top of the stage is combined with a docking collar and is part of a tunnel the crewmen use to transfer from the command module to the LEM.

A square hatch in front of the vehicle is used by crewmen going to the lunar surface. It is just above the platform and ladder on the descent stage.

Above and on either side of the square hatch are triangular windows which look like eyes on the space spider. A rectangular window next to the round hatch is used for rendezvous.

The lower stage contains the descent propulsion engine, a 9,800-pound thrust rocket which can be throttled. It is used to lower LEM from a lunar orbit to a landing on the moon. The engine can be gimbaled up to six degrees away from the center axis, permitting the crew to steer with the engine.

The ascent engine gives a steady 3,500 pounds of thrust and cannot be throttled or gimbaled.

The two stages are locked together with explosive bolts. When they separate, the bolts blow apart and the ascent stage engine is ignited.

On the ascent stage also are four clusters of four reaction control rockets. These control the spacecraft attitude, or small movements left to right, around its axis or up and down.

LEM provides few comforts for the crew.

The crew cabin, forward in the ascent stage, is a 92 by 42 inch cylinder. It has no place for the crew to sit or to lie down. If the crew must sleep, they'll have to do it on the bare floor, sitting up and leaning against the bulkhead.

The two LEM crewmen must stand at their controls, the commander on the left, the LEM pilot on the right. Each has controls for the spacecraft's lateral movement, attitude control and throttling.

Some facts, figures On Apollo 9 crew

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Here are the facts and figures on the Apollo 9 launching:

Astronauts: Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt, 39, and David R. Scott, 36, and civilian Russell L. Schweickart, 33.

Purpose: Orbit the earth to qualify all pieces of Apollo hardware, including first manned test of lunar module designed to land two men on the moon. Rendezvous and docking exercises between lunar module and Apollo 9 command module and a two-hour space walk by Schweickart.

Flight duration: 9 days, 22 hours, 47 minutes.

Rocket: Three-stage Saturn 5, which with Apollo spacecraft stands 363 feet tall. The world's most powerful booster, with first stage thrust of 7.7 million pounds.

Cost of mission: Saturn 5, $185 million; Apollo 9 craft, $55 million; lunar module, $41 million; launch operations, including recovery forces, $59 million. Total: $340 million.

Scheduled highlights Of 10-day earth orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

— Here are the highlights of the 10-day earth orbit flight planned by Apollo 9 astronauts James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart:

First Day

Command ship, lunar module, (LEM) and third stage into 119-mile high orbit. Nearly three hours later, command ship separates, turns around and docks nose-to-nose with LEM. Third stage separates and ground stations fire its engine twice in tests that send stage into solar orbit.

Second Day

Astronauts check out operation of combined space ships, including three firings of main engine which shifts path of orbit to elliptical between 132 and 311 miles high.

Third Day

In first space ship transfer by American astronauts, McDivitt and Schweickart crawl through three-foot connecting tunnel into LEM and activate its systems. They televise a program from the LEM and fire the LEM descent engine while still docked. This engine's designed to lower the craft to the moon. They return through tunnel to the command module.

Fourth Day

McDivitt and Schweickart return to LEM. Schweickart dons self-supporting back pack and 25-foot cord, opens hatch and makes his way hand-over-hand on railings to the command module hatch. Scott helps him get lower part of his body into command module. Then Schweickart returns to LEM along reverse route. He stands outside on LEM platform, taking pictures and sending a television broadcast. Total time outside: 2 hours 10 minutes. McDivitt and Schweickart return to command module.

Fifth Day

Returning to LEM through the tunnel, McDivitt and Schweickart separate the vehicle and fly 109 miles away from the command module. Executing maneuvers that two astronauts will make in taking off from the moon, they fly a complex rendezvous back to a linkup with Scott. They return to the main ship and kick the LEM free so that ground controllers can test-fire its ascent engine, the powerplant that will lift men off the moon.

Sixth through Ninth Days
Relatively light schedule, with crew making extended checks of the Apollo systems. They conduct navigation checks, take pictures and perform experiments with earth aimed cameras.

Tenth Day

Astronauts fire spacecraft engine, re-enter atmosphere and parachute to a landing in the Atlantic Ocean 250 miles east southeast of Bermuda.

Cuba keeps mum about hijackers

Red carpet treatment not automatic; some are jailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba is keeping a curtain of silence over the fate of most of the hijackers who make one-way trips to Havana.

One thing is clear from sketchy reports: Aerial high-waymen rate no automatic red carpet treatment when they land at Fidel Castro's capital. Some get jailed.

But concerned U.S. officials would like to know a lot more—and they say the Communist regime is not supplying this information to the Swiss Embassy, which represents the United States in Havana, nor are Cuban press and radio putting out details.

The question of what happens to the hijackers is important, in part, because if word gets around that an unpleasant reception awaits them in Havana they may be less inclined to commit the crime.

The single most effective deterrent against the mounting wave of hijackings, in the opinion of many experts, would be advance knowledge on the part of a potential hijacker that he is likely to face stiff punishment.

The United States has tough legal deterrents including a 1961 air piracy law carrying a penalty ranging from 20 years to death.

Of 17 suspected offenders apprehended in the United States since 1961, records show 20-year sentences have been meted out three times. Three juveniles were sent to reform school. Two sailors were court-martialed and sentenced to four years' confinement at hard labor. Some of the hijackers were put in mental institutions, one was acquitted after pleading insanity and other cases are pending.

But this accounts for only a fraction of the hijackers. The latest Federal Aviation Agency scoreboard lists 35 "successful hijackings" of U.S. aircraft to Cuba—meaning the hijacker made it to Havana. Of these, 13 took place last year. This year's total is already up to 11.

On one recent flight the FAA had a man in the cockpit of a jet liner headed for Tampa. He turned around to see a gun-wielding passenger holding a stewardess at the cockpit door. "After we landed (at Havana)," FAA traffic control specialist William Stevens related, "two Cuban militiamen and a civilian boarded the plane and grabbed the hijacker."

"For a moment he seemed apprehensive, then he handed his gun to the Cuban civilian saying, 'The safety's on.' That's the last I ever saw of him."

This is the last the FAA knows about the well-dressed passenger, age about 30. The current status of many of the other "successful" hijackers is unknown to U.S. government officials too.

Among the reports giving some clues is one from Alben William Barkley Truitt, grandson of former U.S. Vice President Alben Barkley.

Barkley was charged with hijacking a private plane to Cuba last Oct. 23. He returned to the United States via Canada and said he had been placed in solitary confinement in a Cuban prison. Another returned hijacker, according to the FAA, spent his first six weeks in Cuba in jail.

Two Miami News reporters quoted an official of the Cuban Interior Ministry as saying last summer:

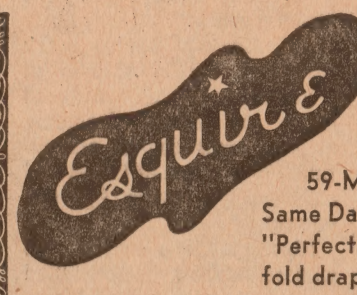

"These people are unstable, crazy, or they wouldn't do this... A person who comes here will be welcome, but not if he steals a plane to do it... We do not need people here with this kind of problem."

The basic reason for hijacking to Cuba lies in the cold war between the communist-run island and its big neighbor, the United States. Washington and Havana have no diplomatic relations and no treaty in force between them for extraditing criminals.

The United States has kept its doors open to Cubans fleeing the Castro regime—including some, such as group which flew to Florida in a cropduster last year, arriving via stolen plane.

Trip bolsters Nixon's confidence

a frequent topic during the Nixon journey.

But they could also mark the beginning of U.S.-Soviet negotiations on a broadened range of issues, including nuclear arms control and ultimately a range of issues and differences between the two powers.

Nixon made clear to the leaders he saw in the allied capitals that the United States intends to hold such negotiations, and promised that American allies will be consulted on any topics affecting their interests.

As a subsequent step in the Middle East peace effort, U.S. officials said, the United States, Soviet Union, Great Britain and France will confer at the United Nations in quest of a settlement framework.

In Paris Sunday, Nixon conferred with Henry Cabot Lodge and other U.S. negotiators at the Vietnam peace talks, then spent between 30 and 40 minutes with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam.

Ky said they had reviewed the situation and had a "wonderful meeting."

U.S. officials said little about the Vietnam talks, evidently anxious to avoid a situation in which the war and negotiations would seem to overshadow the President's final day in Europe.

Allied misgivings about U.S. dedication to the Atlantic partnership, stirred in the past by American emphasis on the Southeast Asian war, was one of the problems Nixon set out to overcome.

Nixon's final Paris appointment was a last conference with French President Charles de Gaulle. They talked privately for more than an hour.

And a senior American official said of the sometimes troubled relationships between the United States and the French:

"We have a new, friendly relationship with the Republic of France that is based on confidence and understanding."

As if to symbolize such an improvement, Nixon announced De Gaulle had accepted his invitation to visit the United States. The President said the French leader would come to Washington next January or February, "at a time mutually convenient."

Mrs. Sirhan has turn To testify for her son

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For eight weeks she has been sitting patiently, quietly, as a prosecutor worked to convince a jury her son should be put to death. Now Mary Sirhan is on the stand to speak for him.

It was choked by tears Friday as she began testifying in the murder trial of her fourth son, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, the killer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

She had just said that Sirhan was born March 19, 1944, in Jerusalem, where her family had lived "for hundreds of years, from generation to generation," when her voice broke.

The judge ordered a weekend recess, saying "I can't conceive a worse set of circumstances under which a mother could be called to testify. I think she shows great courage."

Minutes before, Sirhan had defiantly told the judge he wanted to fire the three attorneys who have worked for him without fee, change his plea to guilty and be executed.

DEAR ABBY:

Grandfolks punished Along with children

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so hurt. My daughter and her husband have now decided that my two grandsons shall be denied a visit to Grandma's and Grandpa's house until they stop doing this or that.

Our greatest pleasure is a visit from our grandchildren who are 4 and 6 years old.

So now we are told there will be no more visits until Bobby stops sucking his thumb, or Richard comes the first time he's called. Their parents call this "firm discipline." I call it, "unfair to grandparents."

Please, Abby, tell us if we are off base for feeling the way we do. Or are the parents? And what should we do about it? Hurt Grandparents

DEAR HURT: It is unfortunate that in their efforts to "discipline" their children your daughter and her husband punish you, too. If you have already let them know how you feel and they refuse to substitute another kind of punishment, say nothing. I agree, it's unfair to you, but the choice is theirs.

DEAR ABBY: I heard a man make a reference to "San Quentin quail." We live 25 miles from San Quentin penitentiary and have never seen any kind of quail around that area. Thank you for any information you can give us, Californians

DEAR CALIFORNIANS: Are you pulling my feathers? "San Quentin quail" is a slang term meaning an under-age girl.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I did a foolish thing. I got the girl I was going with pregnant, and when she told me about it I skipped town and left Carlotta to face everything alone. She was 16 and I was 20. Carlotta could have made trouble for me, but she didn't.

I thought it over and came back. Carlotta was still home like nothing had happened. She had the baby and gave it up for adoption, but she wouldn't even come to the door to talk to me. When I tried to get her on the telephone, her father told me if I ever showed my face around here again he would kill me.

Abby, I made a terrible mistake. I still love the girl, and I know if she would only see me I could make it up to her. I feel like a heel, but even a heel needs advice. How can I get my girl to see me? Denny.

DEAR DENNY: She is not your "girl" anymore. Your timing is poor. Give her a break and let her alone.

DEAR ABBY: When I read that letter from the 15-year-old girl who thinks she's a "slave" because her mother makes her help at home, I could have cried. I guess all teen-age girls feel that way. I know I did about 10 years ago.

I only wish someone would have told me what you told her. Unfortunately, my mother spoiled me, and gave in and did the work herself. Now that I am married and have children of my own, I know what Mom went through, and could kick myself for the way I treated her.

I just want to say, please, girls, love your mother. She is the only one you'll ever have, and you won't have her forever. With love to Mom, R. M.: Huron, S.D.

YOUR HEALTH:

Hearing aids help Nerve deaf persons

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

Hundreds of thousands of people suffer from nerve deafness which affects their serviceable hearing at work, in the movies and listening to radio and television. Nerve deafness is a very complex condition occasionally found in conjunction with ordinary conductive hearing loss. This is known as mixed deafness.

The remarkable advances in ear surgery have brought welcome hearing to those with otosclerosis and other forms of hearing deficiencies. Any interference with sound through the outer ear canal that affects the vibration of the eardrum is known as a

DR. BROTHERS:

'Spice of life' seen In free love groups

By DR. JOYCE ROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My husband and I are in our early forties. Recently my husband has become fascinated by the idea of "free love" groups, several of which have been started around where we live. He insists it's the wave of the future and has been trying to talk me into going to one of their meetings. I think the whole idea is ridiculous, thought up by a group of crazy kids. I also think my husband must be crazy to think I could enjoy that. — B.V.B.

Dear Mrs. B.: Because marriage does not permanently short-circuit attraction to individuals other than the spouse, the possibility of extra-marital sex is ever present in even the happiest of marriages. While there may be a few married couples who honestly never even "look" at another person, most people are aware of occasional interests in persons other than their spouse as sexual partners.

But awareness of continuing sexual interest and responsiveness to those other than the marriage partner does not predicate infidelity. Much of the conflict and tension may be resolved by fantasizing and daydreams. The man walking to work imagines himself seducing every pretty girl he passes.

Your husband's compelling interest in the activities of supposedly "free love" groups may be indicative of fantasy involvement rather than the desire to actually participate in uninhibited sexual activities. By imagining a setting in which complete sexual freedom was encouraged, with unrestrained choice of partner, he is able to nourish unconventional impulses without the actual confrontation that group membership would entail.

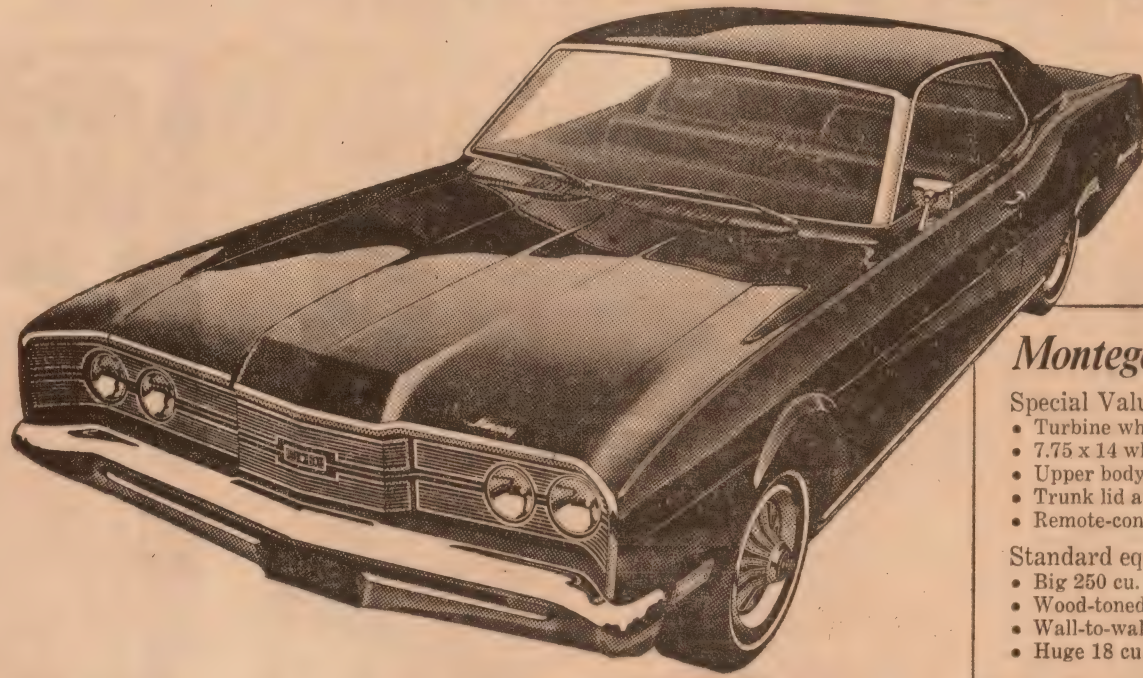

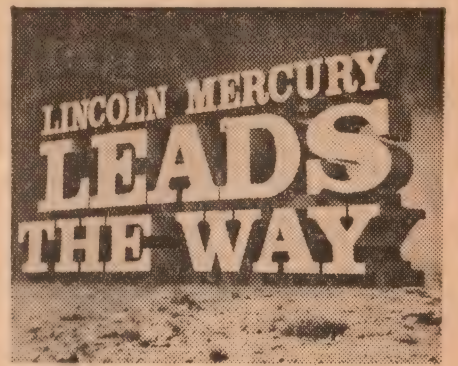

Your husband may also be suffering from anxiety about the effects of aging on his sexual potency.

One way he may seek to reassure himself of his undiminished vigor is by "acting out" in the form of extra-marital experimentation.

However, the "cure" may be worse than the problem. While the man may be able to prove that other women find him sexually attractive and proficient as a lover, the rewards of boosted self-esteem may seem slight in comparison to the destruction of marital and family relationships such philandering can cause.

Satisfaction gained beyond scoreboard

By BILL MCCOLL
Physician, former star
End of Chicago Bears

When I completed my medical training, six years ago, I seemed to have everything a human being could reasonably ask for — a happy childhood, more recognition, through sports, than any one man deserved, a good education and a promising career in orthopedic surgery. I had married a beautiful girl and we had six wonderful children.

But greedy as it sounds, I wanted even more. I'd first begun to think about this "more" back in junior high school days. There was a verse by Grantland Rice on the gymnasium wall at the San Diego YMCA where I played basketball.

"When the one great Scorer come to mark against your name," it proclaimed in big red letters, "He write not that you won or lost, but how you played the game."

What was this greater value, this satisfaction beyond the scoreboard, that was more important than winning and losing? My wife, Barbara, and I got the answer in a Bible study group one summer while I was still studying medicine. There we learned that beyond a doubt, for us Jesus Christ was the "more" in every situation.

Then there we were, three years later, med school and residency work behind us, getting ready to settle down. Just suppose, we asked ourselves, before we got involved with a house and an office, we were to find some corner of the world where the need was enormous and spend there a couple of years really trying to put God first? And so in 1962 our family of eight headed for Korea, hoping to learn a little more about God's kingdom.

Learn we did, the entire two years we were there. Most of my work was carefully structured, but it was in the unplanned work — at least not planned by me — that I often saw God most sharply.

Once, for example, we came upon a group of peasant women wailing at the side of the road. One of the women was holding in her arms a little boy about eight years old. His face was blue, his breathing had stopped, and yet I believed he was still alive. I started mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and kept it up until he began to breathe and his color returned. I felt as if I had literally seen someone snatched from death.

Those Korean women could not understand how an American doctor had happened to come down the road in that remote place at precisely the critical moment. But I was beginning to discover that when we put God first, the world has a way of fitting together.

On another occasion our team was in a remote village. A young man rushed up and begged me to come and look at his wife. She was expecting a baby soon, he said, but had suddenly gone into convulsions. Suspecting a blood-pressure complication, I grabbed a bottle of high blood pressure pills and we took off with him.

The man's wife, it turned out, was in normal labor. But his mother was far from well. The minute I stepped through his door I could see the 47-year-old woman had had a stroke. I took her blood pressure: 240-120. And what was the one thing I had brought with me from camp? Blood pressure pills. Again, as I helped her, I had the uncanny sense of being a part in some vast interlocking plan.

I don't mean I was always there at the happy ending. Many times the part of the plan which I could see looked like nothing but defeat. As I struggled with my own feelings about these defeats the little verse from the far away world of sports kept popping into my head. Whether the game was won or lost was not for me to judge. I had only to play my small part as well as I knew how. And the reason, I saw now, that we can keep trying when our best efforts seem to fail is that we know the One who has the end of all effort in His hands.

Next — William B. Makowski, Canadian school teacher, tells a human and moving story of starvation and an act of kindness that taught him a great lesson.

Haywood makes NBA All-America

NEW YORK (AP) — Spencer Haywood, the University of Detroit's sophomore center, has been named to the National Basketball Association College All-American team picked by the Pro league's coaches.

Also named was Jo Jo White, who was graduated from Kansas last month and who starred with Haywood on the U.S. Olympic team at Mexico City last October.

The rest of the team picks were Rick Mount, junior guard from Purdue, and Lew Alcindor of UCLA and Pete Maravich, of Louisiana State University, both unanimous choices.

Squash champs

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP) — Yamar Ali, a senior at Stevens Tech, is the new Stevens Metropolitan Intercollegiate Squash Tournament champion. He won the title Sunday by defeating Marcus Fernandez, Fordham junior, 15-9, 15-11 and 18-16.

Pins fall For area Bowlers

GRAND RAPIDS — Ann Arbor Bowling Association teams were "strong in the money" this weekend at the Men's State Tournament.

The Coca-Cola team, paced by Rich King's 603 and Jim Murray's 601, fired a hefty 3166.

Meanwhile, in the doubles competition, Bill Henry and Al Meader scored a 1368 handicap as Meader checked in with a 660 actual.

Joseph Hewitt's 243-629 actual paced the Hewitt-James Wilbanks tandem to a 1307 handicap count.

In the singles play, Wilbanks had a 226-606 actual and 666 handicap and Glen Salomon tallied a 660 handicap.

Spartan matmen Win Big 10 title

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Spartans of Michigan State proved their mettle in the ancient sport of wrestling over the weekend, capturing six individual titles and scoring the most team points ever in the Big Ten meet.

It was the fourth league title in a row for MSU.

Michigan State scored 93 points, well ahead of second-place Iowa, which had 50, and Michigan and Northwestern, tied for third with 41 each.

Grabbing firsts in the meet for the Spartans were Gary Bissell at 123 pounds, Keith Lowrance, 137; John Abajace, 152; Tom Muir, 160; Jack Zindil, 177, and Jeff Smith, Heavyweight. Both Smith and Lowrance won their titles with pins.

Local man Leads 'City' All-events

ANN ARBOR — Lester Hall Jr. of Ypsilanti is the all-events leader after the first weekend of action in the 30th annual Ann Arbor Men's Bowling Association City Tournament.

Hall's 1890 is currently 61 pins better than the runner-up John Krogulecki of Howell.

The Thompson McCully team from Belleville posted a 2959 to lead the team event after the first of five weekends — a weekend when scores were generally low at Thunderbird Lanes.

Lloyd Trove of Ypsilanti was sharp for a game, however, as he posted a 265 single game during the team firing. If that actual count stands up, he'll be eligible for one of four special prizes — the one for high individual game in the team event.

In the singles-doubles action at the Howell Bowl-E-Drome, Milan's Mike Horvath is currently the leader, with a 659. His lead is three pins over Thomas Hunt of Brighton.

The doubles leader is Krogulecki-Ray Moore of Howell with a 1310.

Considering Pro contracts

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The new queen and king of figure skating pondered over their futures today, futures which may bring them professional fame and fortune.

The queen is Gabriele Seyfert, a 20-year-old blonde beauty from East Germany.

The king is Tim Wood, also 20, from Detroit, who brought the men's crown back to the United States for the first time in 10 years.

They won their titles in last week's world championships here.

Miss Seyfert, described by one touring show official as "the most exciting personality since Sonja Henie, has been flooded with offers from show groups ranging to a million dollars.

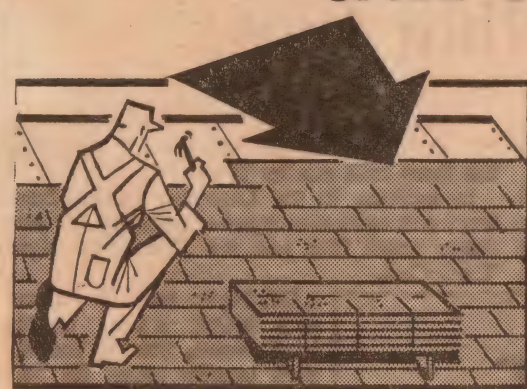

"Gabriele will just have to go into pro skating," the official said.

Miss Seyfert captivated the audiences at the Broadmoor Arena completely. They cheered wildly Friday night when she put on an exhibition on the Puppet on a String theme.

Gary Visconti, Wood's teammate, is ready to turn pro. He's from Detroit, 23 and a two-time U.S. champion and fourth in this year's championships.

So are Cynthia and Ronald Kauffman, sister and brother from Seattle, who won the American pairs competition.

8 Cardinal Stars still Unsigned

What kind of Card game is this with no aces?

That's the question the St. Louis Cardinals might well be asking themselves because if some of those aces don't show up by opening day, the Cards could be playing a losing hand.

Eight aces still are missing from the Cardinals spring training deck, demanding a sweeter pot—a $500,000-plus pot.

The missing include Bob Gibson, who is trying to trump the Cardinals for $125,000; Lou Brock and Curt Flood, who want $100,000 each; Mike Shannon, $70,000; Dal Maxvill, $55,000; Julian Javier, $45,000, and Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn, who each want a healthy raise.

However, Manager Red Schoendienst shrugged off his Card problems, saying "I play the hand I'm dealt. I've lived too long to let worry get to me."

The eight, of course, are big aces counted on to help win a third consecutive National League pennant for the Cardinals, who did manage to sign pitcher Steve Carlton Sunday, the day after the March 1 deadline that makes all unsigned players official holdouts.

Other clubs also are having trouble coming up with aces, but none so acute as the Cardinals, unless it's Minnesota. The Twins still are missing 12 players, including such starters as Dean Chance, Jim Kaat, Ted Uhlaender and John Roseboro.

Sonny Siebert is holding out with Cleveland, Joe Torre with Atlanta, Boog Powell with Baltimore and Rick Monday and Reggie Jackson with Oakland among the other well known absentees.

The Twins did sign Bob Allison, Rich Reese and Bruce Look Sunday, but the demands of veteran catcher Jerry Zimmerman proved too much. It was not known what Zimmerman, who got $15,000 last year, was asking after a 204 season, but it caused the Twins to sell him conditionally to San Diego.

The biggest signer of the day was Al Kaline, Detroit's 16-year standout who ended a one-day holdout by signing for an estimated $85,000, the highest contract in Tiger history. Kaline received about $75,000 last season.

Norm Cash also signed with the Tigers. Others who filled in pacts were Larry Dierker of Houston, Gary Bell of Seattle and Vic Davalillo of California. Davalillo, reported missing for about 10 days from his Venezuela home, showed up in camp Sunday.

Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey still are unsigned at San Francisco, but Marichal says he will show up in camp Wednesday and McCovey was expected to arrive today. Marichal was asking a raise from the $100,000 he got last year and the Giants say he will get it—if it is not too much.

Los Angeles still was missing seven players, including Don Drysdale, but all were working out with the club. The Dodgers also fined rookie pitcher John Duffie $100 for breaking curfew on his second day in camp.

Shaw wins Doral golf

MIAMI (AP)—The Doral Open was just another tournament but it produced golf's newest personality boy—26-year-old Tom Shaw.

The exuberant sun-bleached blond from Golf, Ill., chalked up his first tour victory Sunday through a combination of game-ness and superb play that eluded Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and the other big names lured by the $30,000 first prize on the first stop on the rich Florida circuit.

Shaw's talent showed on the front nine of the par 72 Doral Country Club course when he fired six birdies for a six-under par 30. He showed his cool when he failed to let a triple bogey on the 10th hole rattle him out of the lead.

"I don't believe it, but I love it," Shaw quipped after finishing with a 70 despite a 40 on the back nine for a 72-hole total of 276, 12 strokes under par over the 7,028-yard, sun-washed layout.

Shaw's six-year pro career was interrupted in 1966 when he broke his back in an automobile accident at San Francisco. He wore a brace for three months and returned to the circuit—"too soon," he said.

His game was bothered by muscles which hadn't healed and he left the tour to take an assistant's job in Golf, Ill. He resumed competition in 1968 and came in sixth at Philadelphia, Cleveland and Pensacola for his best finishes.

Ethington sparkles As Flyers triumph

LINCOLN PARK — Sophomore flash Leonard Ethington turned on the magic in the fourth quarter here Saturday evening, and as a result, the defending Class B state basketball champs from Willow Run will have a head of steam when they open district tournament play tomorrow.

Ethington sent 14 points zipping through the nets in a hectic fourth-quarter scramble that saw Willow Run come from five points back to take a 73-67 victory over Lincoln Park.

The 5-8 guard hit five field goals and four free throws — there were three three-point plays involved — to put the finishing touches on a 30-point effort, his career high. Earlier in the year he scored 27.

Ethington's brilliant effort included 10 of 22 from the field and 10 of 16 from the foul line. His hot shooting was part of a torrid team shooting effort — 29 of 58 for an even 50 per cent.

Willow Run, now 7-10 had trailed all the way until the fourth frame, when the Flyers' press began to take its toll. Even though Coach Fred Thomann's forces were playing their second game in as many days, they won the struggle of endurance, and Lincoln Park's momentum collapsed. Wilbur Gardette played a key role in the fourth quarter, completely controlling the defensive boards. Thomann singled the forward for praise.

Lincoln Park finished the season with a 3-13 mark.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

THE HORSE IN THE GRAY FLANNEL SUIT: The usual magic which sparks a Walt Disney film is missing in this agonizingly overextended story of a horse who triumphs both in the show ring and on Madison Avenue. On a double bill with "Winnie the Pooh," the shorter feature is the only thing that carries the program. — Wayside

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCuller's story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

COOL HAND LUKE: Paul Newman turns in a moving performance as a man who refuses to be broken by the incredible inhumanities of a Southern prison camp. Studied with gallows' humor, the film is almost unbearably harsh, but it is a harshness justified by a story that ought to be told. — Ypsi-Ann

THE DEVIL'S BRIDE: British thriller depicting a suprahuman battle of the black arts for the souls of a young man and his would-be bride. Properly horrific, the film is distinguished by highly inventive special effects, as well as a passably good performance by star Christopher Lee. — Wayne Drive-In

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW: Masterful adaptation of Shakespeare's slashing comments on how to handle a woman. Filled with color and pageantry, the film is further distinguished by the Burtons' brilliant handling of the Shakespearean meter. A film the Bard himself might have applauded. — Campus

BULLITT: Director Peter Yates has taken two movie clichés — the grimly honest cop in a corrupt world and star Steve McQueen — and he has made them both work. Artistically and technically excellent; cinema triumphant. — Martha Washington

WHAT'S NEW, PUSSYCAT—WHAT'S UP TIGER LILY: The same formula approach used in the titles is also evident in the total scenarios which Woody Allen has lightly called motion pictures. The way-out Allen approach to comedy provides several hilarious moments, but hardly enough to sustain one — let alone two — full-length features. — Fifth Forum

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

YELLOW SUBMARINE: Full-length animated cartoon featuring the Beatles in perilous combat with the Blue Meanies and all the other people who can't stand happiness. No one but a you-know-what dare find the film anything short of a delight. — Michigan

BONNIE AND CLYDE: Blamed as a factor in the increasing trend towards violence in the cinema, the film actually is to be applauded for tempering a potentially sensational theme with sound psychological and dramatic conflict. If the film is brutal, it is only because killers are. — Ypsi-Ann

WRECKING CREW: Elke Sommer provides the romantic spark for adventurer Matt Helm (Dean Martin) in a film which is far less a sequel than a rerun. Save it for a night when you just have to go to the movies. — State-Wayne

GONE WITH THE WIND: Clark Gable and Vivian Leigh in a love story as timeless as the film itself. If it's possible that anyone hasn't yet seen it, by all means do. — Quo Vadis

THREE IN THE ATTIC: Light-hearted spoof on feminine tactics in the perpetual battle of the sexes. Yvette Mimieux stars as one of three sullied ladies who avenge themselves on their shared lover by imprisoning him in their dormitory and impressing him into stud service. Not for children or mothers about to send a daughter to college. — Quo Vadis Penthouse I, State

THE GRADUATE: Hilarious, poignant, sometimes tragic story of a young man just out of college who must learn to accommodate himself to adult society. Dustin Hoffman's brilliant performance and director Mike Nichols' sure touch endow the film with both high and low-brow appeal, making it a well-deserved success on both counts. — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS: Paul Scofield turns in an excellent performance as Sir Thomas More in this story of a man's refusal to bend with the exigencies of the moment. Technically and dramatically excellent throughout, the main problems in the film seem to arise from a certain credibility gap in the hero himself. Nevertheless, the movie ranks easily among the best of Hollywood's recent efforts. — Campus

ROMEO AND JULIET: Director Franco Zeffirelli's contemporary retelling casts two real teen-agers in the roles of the adolescent lovers. The dramatic poetry of Shakespeare's lines is somewhat obscured, but the freshness and immediacy of this down-key version more than compensate for the loss. In Zeffirelli's hands, the play becomes one of character, and the transformation is as exciting emotionally as it is intellectually. — Fox Village

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing pathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. — La Parisien

Take the most wonderful journey in the world to a land where love conquers all. Join the Beatles and a host of other amazing characters aboard the "Yellow Submarine," now playing at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor.

Children

ASPIRING ARTISTS will have a chance to participate in a real museum show this April sponsored by the Detroit Institute of Arts as a salute to youthful creativity. The exhibit will be drawn from work done by youngsters in three open Saturday workshop sessions scheduled for March 8, 15 and 29. This weekend the concentration will be on collage techniques, while the following sessions will focus on printmaking and sculpture. All programs are under the supervision of trained artists and all materials are provided free of charge. Because of the special interest generated by this series of programs, however, would-be participants are urged to make reservations well ahead of time by calling the museum at 873-2670.

Special

OPEN AUDITIONS for more than 100 summer jobs in the live entertainment shows at the Cedar Point resort will be held tomorrow at the University of Michigan. Any possible kind of talent — puppeteers to Indian dancers — will be considered, and may very well be the thing that will win you an exciting summer job in the nation's second largest amusement complex. All applicants must be either registered college students or graduating high school seniors, but the only other requirement is the natural gift of showmanship and a desire to be where the action is.

Our best to you...

FEAR NO EVIL: World premiere movie which probes the depths of the supernatural in a chilling story of a mirror which stands as the gateway between this world and the next. The pilot for a projected series, the film builds a strong character situation casting Lynda Day as a woman compelled to search for her dead fiancé (Bradford Dillman) through the occult powers of an antique glass. If the rest of the series holds as great a promise as this first segment, it may well be one of the more interesting experiments of the coming season. — 9 p.m.; in color on Ch. 4.

LAUGH IT OFF

"As far as I knew, he liked the place."

Education show not sympathetic

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — "PBL," the National Educational Network's weekly actuality program, presented a 90-minute program Sunday night designed to show "the day-by-day life of a cop on the beat."

The program was filmed with Kansas City policemen for what must have been considerably more than a day. They were shown handling situations that would have provided enough plots for a year of "Dragnet."

The widely publicized removal of the sound track of obnoxiousities had to do with a tussle between the police and a violent 16-year-old picked up for car stealing. Even with the missing words, the provocation was evident.

The program, although it did show much of the tough side of police work, was not an entirely sympathetic picture. From time to time it seemed the officers were putting a bit more muscle than necessary in their work. But the enormous variety of their responsibilities was impressive.

They were shown separating battling husbands and wives; comforting a lost child; pouring a drunk into a paddy wagon; preventing a hold-up; getting an ambulance for a sick, old woman; umpiring a battle between a cab driver and his fare.

Ike better, but still weak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The right medicine and a tough constitution seem to be effectively combating the pneumonia that attacked former President Dwight D. Eisenhower during his recovery from major surgery.

But "he's still quite weak," a high-ranking Walter Reed Army Hospital spokesman said. "He's got to eat and get some strength back."

And his doctors reported that "the area of pneumonia in the right lung base is markedly diminished."

He ate a solid, if soft, meal Sunday—his first after nearly two weeks of liquid nourishment.

Pneumonia — the kind that is contracted while recuperating from surgery — was a setback for the 78-year-old general as he was recovering from high-risk surgery to relieve an intestinal obstruction.

Antibiotics and oxygen were administered after the attacks Thursday, and his position in bed was changed frequently so that no more fluid would build up in the lung. Despite the lessening of pneumonia Sunday, a hospital official said, he is still on antibiotics.

On a liquid diet since several days before the Feb. 23 surgery, Eisenhower "smacked his lips and had a big grin on his face," an observer reported, after trying a bit of gelatin dessert Saturday.

He was equally pleased Sunday morning, when, doctors said, "his gastrointestinal function (had) shown further return to normalcy—so much so that it was possible to increase his diet to include orange juice, a soft-boiled egg, tea and toast."

The guarded optimism about the general was reflected Sunday by his son John Eisenhower who said that if his father "beats this rap, I think he'll have it made."

Eisenhower has been the victim of seven heart attacks—three last summer. He was making progress in his recovery from those when the intestinal obstruction was discovered Feb. 21. It was preventing the passage of food through the small intestine.

Although the pneumonia placed what doctors called a "considerable" new strain on his heart, they reported Sunday that "his heart action and other vital signs remain stable."

Official word Sunday night was that the former President "spent a quiet day, catching up on needed rest."

Art

THE TEXTURE OF LIGHT is the basis for an exhibition at the Detroit Institute of Arts which combines objects as diverse as a polished bronze sculpture and a Polynesian tapa cloth to illustrate the interplay between artistic texture and lighting. An adjunct to the exhibit itself will include scientific demonstrations of the ways in which light can be manipulated to suggest various moods and effects. A unique collection, and one designed for the person who likes art and would like to know something about it. — Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward; through April 13, with galleries open Wednesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

RE-VIEW quite literally describes an exhibition currently at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries which is made up of 100 choice objects from the museum's permanent collection. Ranging in kind from Persian pots to Chinese scroll paintings, and in time from a silver Hittite bull to a Rauschenberg lithograph, the show is held together by an emphasis on high quality in all forms of the arts. Gallery Director Wallace Mitchell describes the reason for the show in these terms: "Because of the Galleries' emphasis on changing and current exhibitions of contemporary art... many of the most important items in it have not been exhibited for some years." The present exhibit represents choice items from a renowned collection; it is well worth at least one visit. — Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries, Bloomfield Hills; through March 23 with galleries open Tuesday through Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.; admission 50c (75c on weekends), students and children under 12, 25c

Books

CHILD'S PLAY by Kate Christie (Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc.; $3.95). Well aware that the most chilling suspense is that which grows out of the seemingly normal, the author has set her story in a drowsy seaside town and chosen for her heroine the bright, attractive fiancée of the town parson. All is as typical and wholesome as apple pie, except that said lovely heroine and her brother are bound together in the remnants of a childhood game which characterized their father as the girl's wicked jailer. In what may well become a classic of psychological suspense, Miss Christie traces the obsessive effect of the child's game on the adult woman as she becomes more and more subject to a fear that the game may work its way into reality. Unusually well-written, the book sustains an objective tone which makes the deepening pathology it describes all the more chilling by comparison. If not yet undisputed mistress of her form, "Child's Play" will probably put Miss Christie well on her way.

Night life

BIMBOS: Original Old Thyme Saloon, replete with waiters in straw hats and red garters, peanut shells on the floor, and the "old thyme" sing-along music of Uncle Pat and the Gaslighters. ## Garrison Probe Sought DETROIT (AP)— The American Bar Association will recommend a probe of New Orleans District Atty. Jim Garrison and the Clay Shaw conspiracy trial, the group's president was quoted over the weekend by the Detroit News.

William T. Gossett of Detroit was quoted in the Sunday editions of the News as saying the ABA will ask the Louisiana Bar Association to consider disciplinary action against Garrison. Shaw was found innocent of charges he plotted to kill President Kennedy.

Gossett said later he was under the impression the remarks he made by telephone to a News reporter were off the record. The ABA would have to vote as a group on the matter, he said, adding that a unanimous vote among attorneys in the ABA would probably be impossible.

Gossett told the News that Garrison's motives in bringing Shaw to trial must be investigated by the Louisiana Bar Association. The ABA president told the News he was sure there was "a feeling of outrage" among people in Louisiana over what he said appeared to be an unjustified attack on Shaw.

More clergy Should play golf

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The Rev. Daniel J. Davis says it would be a good idea if more preachers went out and played golf — on some day other than Sunday, of course.

Most ministers, he said, have no hobby. "They get bogged down, need to get out and meet people... let their hair down."

Red Guards protesting Soviet-Chinese incident

TOKYO (AP) — Red Guards and workers demonstrated around the Soviet Embassy in Peking today after Chinese and Soviet troops clashed on a disputed river island on the Manchurian border.

Both Moscow and Peking announced "many killed and wounded" in the battle Sunday.

Japan's Kyodo news agency said crowds of demonstrators ringed the Soviet Embassy in the Chinese capital, carrying placards reading, "We strongly protest the Soviet provocation" and, "H. K. Kossygin, a reference to Soviet Premier Alexei Kossygin.

The Soviet Union and Red China accused each other of crossing the border Sunday, and China said it was the 18th Soviet violation in two years. Although similar clashes have been reported between Chinese and Russian border troops in the past, it was believed to be the first time Peking and Moscow exchanged protest notes over such an incident.

Peking's New China News Agency said the battle occurred on an island in the Ussuri River, which forms part of the border between Red China and the Soviet Far East.

The Chinese called the island Chenpao and claimed it is "indisputable Chinese territory." The Soviets called it Damansky and said it constitutes their Nizhnekhailovka border post.

The island is 200 miles north of Vladivostok.

The Chinese Foreign Ministry said "large numbers of fully armed" Soviet troops crossed into Chinese territory in four armored cars and trucks despite repeated warnings from Chinese border guards and "outrageously opened cannon and gun fire, killing and wounding many Chinese frontier guards."

It said the Chinese were "compelled to fight back in self-defense" and gave the Soviet soldiers "punishment which they deserved."

The Soviet version, reported by the news agency Tass, said: "Chinese violators of the frontier were chased away from Soviet territory by the resolute actions of Soviet border guards." It added there were "killed and wounded" but did not say whether they were Chinese or Russian.

The New China News Agency said a Chinese protest note was delivered to the Soviet Embassy in Peking, demanding that the Soviet Union "punish the culprits of this incident," halt its "encroachment on Chinese territory" and hold itself "responsible for any grave consequences that may result." The note said Chinese reserves the right to demand compensation.

Tass said the Soviet government protested to Peking, saying: "Any provocative actions by Chinese authorities will be rebuffed and resolutely cut short by the U.S.S.R."

The report from Peking said Soviet frontier guards intruded 18 times in the Chiling area, north of Chenpao Island, between November 1967 and Jan. 5, 1968. It said they "disrupted Chinese people's production and on many occasions killed and wounded Chinese people who were engaged in productive labor."

Western travelers in the Soviet city of Khabarovsk, 400 miles north of Vladivostok, have reported seeing large numbers of Soviet troops massed along the Manchurian border.

Concorde To begin 3-year test

TOULOUSE, France (AP) — After a successful maiden flight, the British-French Concorde, the western world's first supersonic airliner, began a three-year program of tests today.

Adverse weather delayed the first flight since Thursday, and the huge four-engine jet was forced to fly below 3,000 feet Sunday instead of around 12,000 feet. Increasing ground winds cut the scheduled 40-minute flight to 27. And the plane did not get over 350 miles an hour, though she is designed to fly at 1,400 m.p.h.

Nevertheless, chief test pilot Andre Turcat, 47, said the Concorde "behaved perfectly" in her 90-degree sweep around this area of southwest France. British government officials and aircraft executives called the flight a "soaring triumph."

Turcat said he plans to fly again in a few days, but the most critical tests of all—sonic boom—are still more than a year away.

A British version will fly from Bristol in six weeks.

The builders, Sud-Aviation of France and the British Aircraft Corp., hope to obtain airworthiness certificates by the end of 1972 so that the plane can go into service in 1973.

The first test flight came more than a year behind schedule and enabled the Soviet Union to launch the world's first supersonic airliner.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By WORDEN E. GEER

Some people say love is blind. All of us often hear, "Good grief, what does he see in her". Or, vice versa —

At an early age, a child is taught that God is love. As the child grows older, a mistaken understanding of the meaning of love takes place. During a confused adolescence, far-fetched wise cracks and sometimes heard that love is an itchy feeling you can't scratch. When the child matures to marriageable age, love is found — or so it is thought. The staggering divorce statistics reveal how little we know about love and what it is. Love need not, nor should it be undefinable or unfindable. Why? The answer is found in the same Book that has so many answers to so many other questions. Read it —

"Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude. Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at its wrong; but rejoices in the right. Love bears all things; believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things . . ."

IT DOESN'T TAKE A GENIUS

To know that you can't get something for nothing in a new home!

Actually, we really do make a profit on everything we sell.
But, that doesn't stop us from keeping the profit low and building value into each and every one of the homes that bear our name and our trademark.

What it takes to do a job right is plenty of creative imagination, building experience and the ability to buy everything that goes into the construction of the
